PLANNED EXPANSION OF THE WOLFEN FILM FACTORY (6 pp)

This document consists of a [redacted] report on the planned expansion of the Wolfen Film Factory during 1952. Main headings and the notes on the last page are in English, the remainder of the report in German.

Expansion is planned in the photographic and artificial silk sections, in the power supply, in warehousing and transportation facilities, in the workshops, and in ~~the~~ welfare, scientific work, and general services.

The report gives the planned expenditures for expanding the abovementioned sections, in Deutsche marks, broken down by departments and by the types of machines, vehicles, and construction within these departments. For example, within the photographic section, figures are listed in detail for planned expenditures for equipment and machinery for the production of blank film, Magnetton (sound-recording tape?), Perwolit, and Perfol, and for the emulsification plant, the laboratories, and the inspection stations. In the artificial silk section the same type of information is given for the viscose fibers, sulfate cellulose, and nitrate cellulose departments, and for the yeast factory [sic]. Similar breakdowns are given for the other sections.
